

I would definitely support keeping K-Love's radio station on the air and would be badly affected if unable to listen to it. It is the only station in my area that plays modern Christian music, and it is "positive and encouraging," as they state on the air. Our society desperately needs this, as opposed to typical stations, which may play music that can be, simply put, depressing. I feel it helps to keep my focus on the right track and believe it can and does the same for others.
